Website / Newspaper

The screenshot shows the New York Times website interface. At the top, there are navigation links: HOME PAGE, TODAY'S PAPER, VIDEO, MOST POPULAR, and TIMES TOPICS. The main header features the New York Times logo and the word "Economy". Below this, there are several tabs: WORLD, U.S., N.Y. / REGION, BUSINESS, TECHNOLOGY, SCIENCE, HEALTH, SPORTS, and OPINION. The "BUSINESS" tab is selected. Underneath, there are search and financial tools sections. The main content area displays the article title "Sharp Rise in Home Sales in February" with a left-pointing arrow. Below the title, it says "By JAVIER C. HERNANDEZ" and "Published: April 5, 2010". The article text begins with "The wobbly housing market is showing a rare sign of strength: pending home sales were up significantly in February, a report released Monday said, suggesting that Americans took advantage of a tax credit for home buyers." To the right of the text are social media sharing options: SIGN IN TO RECOMMEND, TWITTER, and SIGN IN TO E-MAIL.

Online Newspaper or Website? Because we cannot identify separate in print publication information, we can assume this source was published either online only, or concurrently online and in print. We therefore do not need to account for standard newspaper publication information (such as page numbers), but instead, website information. This will help your reader identify the source
